For Park Wins Approval

Young Men, 18 to 24, Asked to Report Next Wednesday for Job Certification

A National Youth Administration project, with the improvement of Centennial park through labor provided by young men as the objective, was approved by the park commission at a meeting here last night with members of city council's finance committee and Columbian County NYA Director Robert Bloor.

Clyde R. Reich, secretary of the park commission, today announced that work will get under way early in the coming month. Provisions of the agreement are that operations must be started before Jan. 1.

In accordance with this program, a call was sounded today for young men, 18 to 24, who are unemployed, to report Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the Memorial building, for certification.

Under the NYA proposal, the federal government provides 70 per cent of the cost of a project, the sponsor—in this case, the park commission—the remaining 30 per cent.

Four-Month Program

The Centennial park improvement will be started as a four-month program, Reich said today. The question of lengthening the job will be discussed, if necessary, at the termination of the four months.

In this particular project, the NYA, or federal government, is expected to provide approximately $1,000 a month, the park commission on about $330. The commission now has sufficient money to take care of December work. After that it will use money from its appropriation from city council for next year.

Council finance committee members, A. P. Morris, Fred Koeneich and C. F. Zimmerman, will report the set-up to council at its next meeting. The co-operation of council in providing park funds, is essential in carrying out the program.

Considerable Work Planned

Considerable work will be done at the park, Reich said, in the way of buildings, benches, tables, small tables and benches with roofs—a sort of individual shelter house for small parties—the partial inclosing of the large, open shelter house now at the park, the construction of concrete walks, and other items.

Members of the park commission, Ed Sheen, J. M. Kelley and Dana Floding, point out that the NYA project will not only add appreciable improvements to the city recreation center but it will also provide work for unemployed young men and will acquaint them with trades practices, such as laying of concrete, carpentry, and construction work of various types.

Lisbon Will Dial
For Service Sunday

Northern Columbian county, as far as telephone service is concerned, will be completely dial Saturday midnight.

At that time the Lisbon exchange dial equipment will be cut into service, with Lisbon's mayor, G. Cecil Rauch, making the first call. A total of 980 stations in the Lisbon exchange will be affected.

The dial service is now in operation in Salem, Leetonia, Rogers and New Waterford.

Dial will be in operation in East Palestine next March 8 and in Columbian April 5.

New directories to all subscribers in the Salem area are going out now.

GREEKS SEIZE POGRADETZ AS
ITALIANS FLEEAssociated Press Writer Confirms Capture of PogradetzDUCE'S SOLDIERS
LEAVE MATERIALSFinds No "Front", Fighting
Spread Over
Wide Area

The following dispatch is the first independent verification that Pogradetz, Albanian town 20 miles north of Koritza, has been captured by the Greeks. Its capture has not been claimed officially in Athens although it was reported Tuesday in London. The Greek command said at that time only that its forces had "overshot" it.

By PETER TOMPKIN
POGRADETZ, Albania (Via Athens), Nov. 29.—Greek official communiques have been on the conservative side both as regards Italian casualties and the amount of booty taken.

Every Albanian village and all along the coastal sector through which I have traveled to this little settlement 20 miles north of Koritza, I was amazed by the number of trucks, motorcycles and guns littering the roadside, to say nothing of the quantities of war materials already collected by the Greeks.

Finds No "Front"

I can also understand how why the communiques have been so reserved about the present situation.

In reality, there is no front, and fighting, spread over a wide area far into the snow-covered mountains, is being carried on mostly by small units.

These detachments operate more or less independently and communications are so poor it is impossible for commanders even in the immediate sector to know the exact situation.

Military leaders even in this advanced post are unable to tell just how far beyond here their forces have penetrated into the wild mountains.

They say, however, that their forces far to the north and west of Pogradetz are meeting no concerted resistance.

There is one report that Greek artillery is shelling remnants of the Parma and Venezia divisions but that is as definite as anything I have been able to learn.

I am writing this dispatch on a typewriter used only a few days ago by an Italian officer who apparently left hurriedly. A half-written letter was found in the machine.

I left the Greek city of Ioannina yesterday and drove where the Albanian frontier crosses the river Aos. The bridge was destroyed there. I crossed by raft and went the rest of the way to Koritza by motorcycle.

Greek forces apparently were well into Albania the entire way for nowhere along the whole route did I even hear artillery fire.

Wallace Is Given
Stormy Reception
In Mexican Visit

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—A pro-Almazan demonstration before the United States embassy last night which police ended with tear gas after stones had been hurled and two attaché cuffed marked a stormy beginning for the visit of U. S. Vice President-Elect Henry A. Wallace.

"Viva Almazan—down with Wallace!" a crowd of 150 to 200 shouted when the latter arrived here to represent the United States at the inauguration of President-Elect General Manuel Avila Camacho in the disputed election on last July 7, jeered Wallace and threw stones at the steel-shuttered window of the embassy before police scattered them with tear gas.

No attempt was made to molest Wallace but the military and naval attaches of the embassy, Col. Gordon McCoy and Commander Wallace Dillon, reported they were cuffed about by the crowd.

Flying sticks and stones caused a few minor injuries.

Almazan, who maintained that he defeated Avila Camacho in the July elections, renounced claims to the office last Tuesday. He said he was withdrawing in the interest of peace.

His followers expressed resentment toward Wallace because his presence here constituted United States recognition of Avila Camacho as the president-elect.

Bombing the Burma Road

News of the Day Newsreel

(By Associated Press)

Ohio was promised some relief today from the three day cold spell that glazed northern Ohio roads, caused four deaths and a multitude of minor accidents.

The forecast was "warmer with rain or snow" and as early as mid-night last night the temperatures began to rise.

At Cleveland the temperature rose from 24 at 8 a.m. to 28 at midnight; it was 29 at Springfield and 33 at Cincinnati.

The state highway department reported snow plow and cinder crews at work on icy roads around Defiance, Lima, Newark, Coshocton, Cleveland, Painesville, Chardon and Jefferson.

The fourth traffic fatality of the cold spell was recorded at East Liverpool where Mrs. Anna Clifford, superintendent of the Scioto division of the Norfolk and Western Railway company was promoted to general superintendent of the Eastman General division. It was announced at the general offices of the railway. L. C. Ayers, former general superintendent, was promoted to assist general manager.

Four vehicles were hit by trains in snowy northern Ohio but no one was seriously hurt.

Eddie Howell Re-elected Commissioner for Seventh Year

Russell Gibbs has been elected chairman of the executive committee of the Salem Boy Scout council, succeeding M. H. Mawhinney, head of the organization for the past year.

Other officers include K. U. Wirtz as first vice chairman and H. C. Hurlburt, second vice chairman.

Edward "Eddie" Howell was re-elected Salem Scout commissioner for his seventh consecutive year.

At a board of review, conducted for scouts last night at the Memorial building, George Stenger and Richard Entriem of troop No. 2 passed second class tests.

Merit badges were awarded to Herbert Hansell, troop 2, life saving; Dale Wykoff, troop 2, safety, first aid, public health and firemanship; Benny Kupka, troop 23, pioneering; Kenneth Groner, troop 23, scholarship and first aid to animals.

The speaker, a graduate of Nebraska State Teachers college, received his doctor's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1935. He went to Cleveland college in 1938 from the University of Milwaukee where he was assistant professor of history. He is the author of a widely-read book, "The Wars of the Iroquois."

Dr. Hunt worked for several years on newspapers in Philadelphia and New York City.

MEET TO STUDY
DEFENSE FUNDSAgree Additional Revenue
Needed to Carry
On ProgramSALES TAX MEETS
WITH DISFAVORAgree Non-Military Budget Items Must Be Cut to Bone

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President Roosevelt told a press conference today he would look with disfavor on a sales tax to raise additional revenue for the defense program.

The statement was in response to a press conference question about his supper conference tonight with seven congressional and departmental fiscal advisers.

Hasn't Heard of It

The chief executive said he had not heard of any talk that a sales tax might be considered in any new general tax bill in the session of congress starting in January.

When asked flatly whether he would look with favor on such a proposal he replied he would not.

The President told reporters that his discussion tonight would be merely exploratory, that both taxes and expenditures would be examined, but that no decisions would be reached at this time.

Invitations to the informal dinner and the equally informal discussions to follow went to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Assistant Secretary Sullivan, Budget Director Smith, Senators Harrison (D-Miss.) and George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee, and Representatives Doughton (D-N.C.) and Cooper (D-Tenn.) of the house ways and means committee.

Harrison and Doughton are chairmen of the congressional committees that handle revenue legislation.

Agree On Cut

President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisers seemed in agreement that non-military budget items must be cut to the bone. In addition, several of the Democratic revenue leaders in congress have come out for general increases in taxes to help, at least, balance the "normal" or domestic budget and possibly to take care of some of the increased outlays for defense.

While expenditures in the current fiscal year ending next June 30 have been estimated at around $13,500,000,000, Congress approved appropriations and authorizations for this and future years totaling more than $20,000,000,000. Some congressmen predicted the 1941-42 budget may call for upwards of $15,000,000,000.

TIME TO STRIKE,
SAYS MACKENZIECities Marked Weaknesses Developed In Fascist Set-Up(By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Writer)

The report from London that the British have begun a general offensive against Italy, as the weak partner in the Axis, will signal a momentous development if it proves to be true.

Such an offensive would be the logical outgrowth of the Italian debacle in Greece. Indeed, the general Italian position is such as to cry out for an English attack, since apart from the Greek setback the British blockade has developed marked weaknesses in the Fascist set-up.

Not only is Italy suffering a great shortage in foodstuffs and raw materials for manufacture, but her communications with her overseas forces are largely severed.

This is the chosen moment granted by the Gods for England to strike and try to eliminate Mussolini from the conflict.

IT WAS GOOD ENOUGH FOR GRANDPA

In grandpa's day they had a national election every four years. Between times, they gave presidential politics a good letting alone. The national headquarters folded up, except for a corporal's guard, and things were quiet along the Potomac.

It isn't grandpa's day any more. The old gentleman would be dizzy trying to keep up with a national administration that plays presidential politics 365 days a year, year in and year out, that starts the next presidential campaign the day after the returns are in from the last one, that keeps the vote-getting stew bubbling on the back of the stove all the time, and has elected the same president three times and is dreaming about a fourth.

The only thing grandpa would be able to understand is the Republican party, which was good enough for him when he was alive and hasn't changed much. The party still sticks to the notion that if it gets up a head of steam once every four years, about six months before election day, one of these days it will be able to overtake the New Deal party, which keeps up a head of steam every day of every year. The New Deal has done the same thing to politics the Germans have done to warfare; namely, it has taken advantage of the dullness and laziness of the other side.

Until and unless the other side snaps out of it, the blitzkrieg boys will continue to have things pretty much their own way. As they say in sports, you can't beat somebody with nobody.

The Republican party needs to be kept alive and active for the next four years. It needs a comprehensive, intelligent program and constant exercise of party discipline, to avert such future fumbling as voting against national rearmament in the face of a sizzling threat of war. It needs a spokesman of front rank importance, and the spokesman needs to keep saying what is eternally true—that the liberal program of the New Deal is heading for a wreck on the rocks of a loose fiscal policy. The party needs to be ready for the day when the lollipops are all gone and the electoral majority begins to look around for somebody to tell it what to do next. Republicans can't expect to beat the New Deal party, which never stops campaigning and never misses a trick from one election day to the next, by jumping out of the bushes just before time to vote and asking for the electorate's sympathetic consideration. Grandpa, himself, didn't have that much faith in his party.

Fortunately, Republicans have a ready-made man for the job. Wendell Willkie, whatever some party politicians may think about him, can stimulate the opposition down where it needs stimulating—down where the voters live. If it took $50,000 a year to keep Willkie interested, he'd be worth it—and it probably wouldn't take anywhere near that much, because his convictions run deeper than his earning power.

HARD-HEADED SENTIMENT

One possible danger of Great Britain's new policy of telling Americans the naked truth about its battle for survival is a too violent reaction. It is evident already in questions about Britain's chances of winning the war. American sentiment for the British is hard-headed; there is no inclination to share ships, planes and other equipment with a nation which may have to forfeit them to an already well armed Germany.

Violent reaction, in this case, seems to be the result of too much hopefulness. Americans have been so confident that Great Britain ultimately would defeat Germany that suggestions of honest doubt plus British inability to stop devastating bombing raids are likely to produce the opposite extreme of skepticism. It would be better to lead them up to frightening reality gradually, the way horses used to be introduced to automobiles.

The objective truth seems to be that Great Britain has a fair chance of winning the war if the United States supplies as much equipment as the British believe this country is capable of supplying. That entails a far greater war effort than Americans now have in contemplation; it likewise holds more serious risk of involvement and sacrifice than it has been convenient so far to think about. Britain's immediate problem is how to set forth the gravity of the problem faced without at the same time obscuring the hope of victory which is the prime condition for United States cooperation with Great Britain's desperate defense.

SOMEWHERE IN BETWEEN

Rep. Martin Dies, after reading his mail from the White House, can boast that he now has had his ears pinned back by experts. President Roosevelt left little doubt that he meant to tell the representative to remember his place; that an investigator is nothing but a high class snooper, even though investigating un-American activities.

There's no percentage for the public at large in this kind of fire-eating. Rep. Dies and President Roosevelt have been sharp with each other before. All the public's interested in is that each of them in his separate way is concerned with the vital problem of stopping organized treason in the United States before the traitors have a chance to do any further damage. Somewhere in between what may have been the excesses of the Dies committee in finding bogeymen under the bed and the excesses of the Roosevelt administration in not finding anything anywhere that it didn't want to find is the golden mean of common sense precaution—where the people want their government to be.

ITALY'S ROLE TO BE RESTORED?

Bad news for Italy is developing in Great Britain. Premier Mussolini soon may have something tougher than the fiasco in Greece or the assault on Taranto to explain to his distressed people.

Italy's original role in the axis alliance was fat boy for the Allied attack. France yearned to knock off the southern member of the axis and could have done so without raising a sweat during the winter of 1939-40 while Germany was quiescent in the north.

France, however, waited too long and endured the crowning humiliation of an Italian declaration of war against it after Germany had crushed French military resistance. Today, Britons are beginning to wonder if their government, too, is going to pass up a chance to knock off the weak member of the axis.

Italy is not, never has been, in a strong defensive position. It is not a warrior nation. Its inhabitants judged by their indifferent success in Spain and their difficulties in Greece, have no stomach for wars of conquest. Their presence in a military alliance with Hitler is as unnatural as Pierrot reciting lines from Faust—a situation that calls for the close attention of the British navy and whatever land and air forces can be spared. Italy's original role apparently is going to be restored. Whatever else may happen, the fat boy is going to get what fat boys usually get when the going gets rough—a good going-over.

WHILE this is bound to be a lively day, with probably much moving about, change, and variation in plans and objectives, judging by the influencing planets. Much precaution and sagacity will be needed to avert pitfalls, treachery, fraud, all sorts of undercover efforts to thwart and undermine pretentious ambitions. Keep alert to several petty snare and schemes, meeting such with corresponding vigilance, intrigue and smoothness, possibly on the "dog-eat-dog" policy, pernicious but sometimes enforced or justified.

Those whose birthday it is although having a lively and exciting year, will be obliged to exercise much strategy, discretion, and vigilance. To avert snares, schemes, treacheries and other forms of sinister intent.

A child born on this day may have sufficient intelligence to handle difficult and tricky situations, but its own strategic and secret propensities may plunge it into peculiar or questionable involvements.

CLARK GOES TO GRAND RAPIDS

New Job Represents Security, Says Famous Coach

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Nov. 29.—The big stadiums filled with their cheering multitudes were forgotten today by George ("Popsy") Clark, one of football's big time coaches for more than three decades.

Clark, one of the greatest backs in football history at the University of Illinois before the World War, has signed to coach and act as public relations director at Grand Rapids university.

"This position represents security to me," said Clark, coach of the Detroit Lions during the past season. "I have two daughters approaching college age and I shall be glad to have them at a growing institution. I myself will be happy to be in a situation that does not depend on my won and lost record."

Although Clark is fully aware that his teams at Grand Rapids will be far removed from the big time, he hopes for development of the school's athletic status.

Grand Rapids was coached by Paul Snell last year and won two games while losing five.

Clark's coaching career started in 1916. He coached and played on service teams during the war. After hostilities ceased, he coached at Minnesota, Michigan State, Kansas and Butler.

In 1931 he went to Portsmouth, O., as coach of a national professional football league eleven. When the club's franchise was shifted to Detroit in 1934 he came alone, winning the league title the following year. In 1937 he left Detroit to accept a three year contract as coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

He returned to Detroit for the 1940 season.

BURLINGTON, Mass.—John Philip Sousa's favorite horse A'darin, now 26 years old, has been purchased by Augustus Berthiaume as a pet for his two children.

Methodist Women Arrange Series Of Book Reviews

Plans for a series of book reviews featuring Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner and Dorothy Fuldehne of Cleveland, and Mrs. Guy E. Byers of Salem were completed at a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service in the Methodist church.

The series will be held at the church on the following dates: Jan. 22, Rabbi Brickner; Feb. 5, Dorothy Fuldehne; March 5, Mrs. Byers.

Mrs. R. E. Smucker is chairman of the committee in charge. Tickets

Presbyterian Women Plan Luncheon

A cordial luncheon at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the church was held by the Presbyterian Women's Bible class in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Places were arranged for 45 members at the table which was attractively appointed.

Mrs. C. H. Betts, president of the class, whose wedding anniversary was Monday, was presented an anniversary cake.

Mrs. George Chappell, chairman of the committee for this quarter, was in charge.

The program, opening with devotional service led by Mrs. A. H. Kennedy, included piano solos, "Scherzo Ballet" (Sabathil), "Rock of Ages," with variations, and "Theme" (Tschalkowsky) by Mrs. J. W. Hundertmark; and vocal solo by Deborah Beery, accompanied by her sister, Priscilla.

During the business session, plans were announced for the next meeting, Dec. 30, when losers will entertain winners of a membership and attendance contest. The affair, which will be in charge of the losing team and the December committee, headed by Mrs. Chappell, will feature a Christmas gift exchange. Mrs. H. B. Parks and Mrs. H. W. Reynard are captains of the teams in the contest which will end next month.

Mrs. Bailey Honored at Dinner, Shower

Mrs. Hugh Bailey, the former Miss Alice Moser, whose marriage was a recent event, was honored at a dinner and shower given last evening by Mrs. Norman Kelly at her home on E. State st.

Guests were bridge club and bowling team associates and a few other friends of the honoree. Mrs. Bailey was presented a shower of miscellaneous gifts following the seven o'clock dinner.

Table appointments featuring a Christmas theme were attractive, with white trees and candles as centerpiece. Places were arranged for 16 guests.

Bridge prizes during the evening went to Mrs. James Hassey, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Steve Odoran.

N. Ellsworth Ave. Club Meets

North Ellsworth Avenue club met at the home of Mrs. Harley Bosten of the Ellsworth rd. yesterday afternoon.

Plans were made for a cordial dinner to be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Bonsall on the Ellsworth rd. Jan. 2. Election of officers and a gift exchange will be features of the program.

After the regular meeting a lunch was served by the hostess.

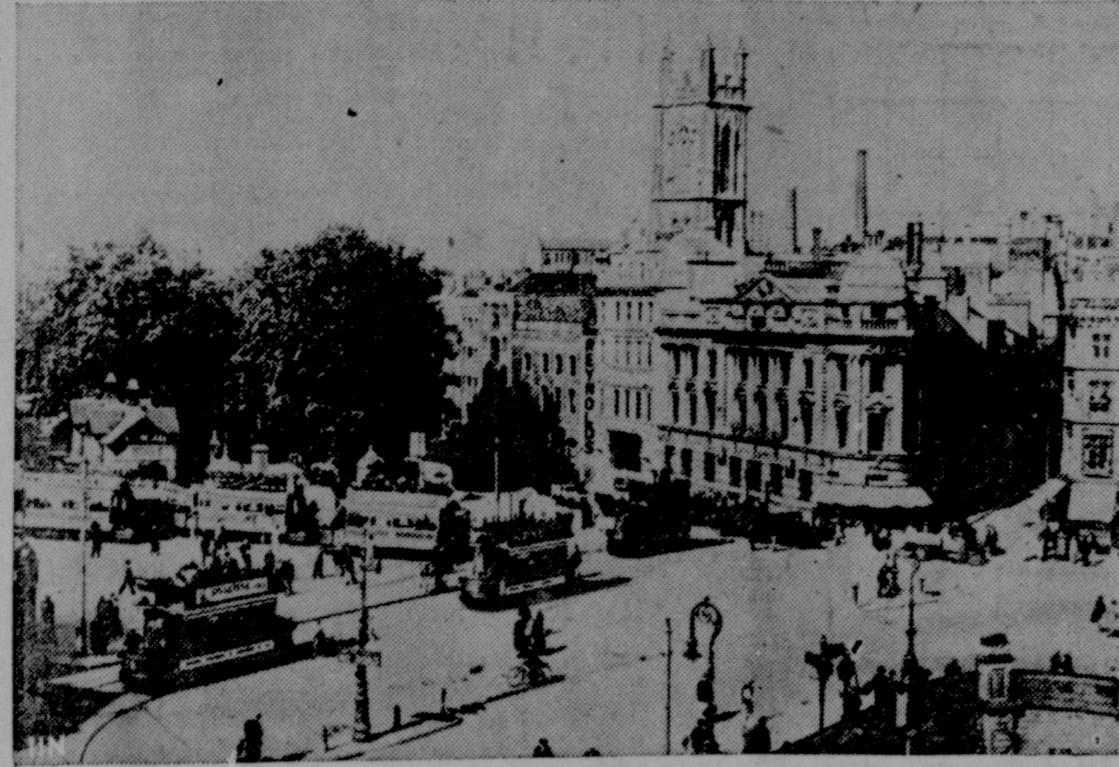

Jollyette Members Entertained

Jollyette club members were entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, E. State st.

Prizes in "500" were on by Mrs. Robert Lopeman and Mrs. Harry Elsner and Mrs. Otis Flick.

Lunch was served by the hostess. The group will meet Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Ed. Jeffries, W. Pershing st.

Hit by Car

DAYTON, Nov. 29.—An automobile struck Shirley Bishop, 6, in front of her home, fatally injuring her.

Mrs. W. L. Watters, Mrs. Joseph Pasco and Miss Hazel Dishong were visitors.

A desert lunch was enjoyed before the "500" games, in which prizes went to Mrs. Russell Stallsmith and the traveling prize to Mrs. Bert Whittaker.

The next session will be held Dec. 11 at the home of Mrs. Whittaker, 650 Woodland ave. A Christmas box and social program are planned.

The first meeting of the new year, Jan. 9, will be held at the library assembly room, featuring a guest speaker who will present a discussion on interior decorating.

The program last evening consisted of individual brief talks by the various members on the topic, "The History of Dress." Costumes and garments of many periods were discussed.

Robert E. Reynolds, machinist, New Castle, Pa., and Letitia A. Pander, Salem.

Marvin L. Whaley, truck driver, and Willie Mae Edwards, both of Salem.

Robert Paulini, bar tender, and Phyllis Eckhardt, both of Lisbon.

LOCK SAYS:

The farmers seem to be awakening to the fact that they have been used as tools by the chain stores. This is indicated in the resolution adopted by the California State Grange in which the growers affiliated with it say they are now going to work with the local merchants as the pioneers who developed communities. The resolution accuses the national chains of withdrawing their profits from the state, which is true. It also says they curtail employment, reduce wages and decrease buying power, which also are true.

Steel Man's Widow Is Awarded $30,000

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—A common plead court jury today awarded Mrs. Clara Owen Warner, secretary and second wife of Jonathan Warner, late Youngstown steel magnate, $30,000 in her $50,000 suit against her step-daughter, Mrs. Edward F. Clark over a Stuart painting of George Washington.

Mrs. Warner, formerly of Philadelphia, now resides with relatives in Girard. Mrs. Clark is from Cleveland.

The complaint was that Mrs. Clark sold illegally a Gilbert Stuart painting of George Washington which is now a part of the Andrew Mellon collection donated to the National Art Gallery at Washington.

Mrs. Warner claims the portrait was delivered for storage only. Mrs. Clark replied it was given to her son and that she sold it legally with her father's consent.

I never argue when folks say there's no difference in teas. I just brew a rich-flavored, fragrant cup o'
LIPTON'S and make 'em enjoy bein' wrong.

When someone says he's holdin' out for his rights just "for the principle of the thing," you can know he's a little ashamed of bein' so selfish.

Want a treat that wouldn't scare a penny? Brew a cup o' LIPTON'S
TEA. You'll like knowin' that even as fine a tea as this is the most economical thing you kin drink, besides water!

Lipton's matchless flavor comes from a blend of choice teas—each selected for some distinctive quality. This blend includes something only Lipton gives you—notable teas from Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.

Tells Story of Meteorites

The story of the meteorite, as nearly as it can be developed, was sketched by Dr. H. H. Nininger, president of the Society for Research on Meteorites, member of the faculty of Denver university, following the Kiwanis club luncheon Thursday in the Memorial building.

Dr. Nininger exhibited specimens of meteorites, some like stones, others entirely metallic. He owns the largest private collections of meteorites in the world.

Harold M. Williams, High school principal, was program chairman. Dr. Nininger addressed High school students Thursday morning.

Await Hearings

Steve Bartha, charged with disorderly conduct, and Joseph Corso, charged with assault and battery were scheduled for a hearing today before Mayor Norman Phillips.

Bartha filed the charge against Corso and the latter preferred charges against Bartha as the result of an incident which occurred while the Corso store was being picketed Wednesday afternoon.

Bartha, clerk in another grocery store, was one of the several persons picketing the Corso store in an attempt to have it close Wednesday afternoons.

Build New Homes

Three new homes are included in building permits issued recently by the city.

Att'y Lozier Caplan obtained a permit to erect a $5,000 dwelling on N. Union ave., and John H. Schuster a $2,500 house on Newgarden st. Fred Rufer, contractor, was granted a permit for a $2,500 house on Jennings.

Walter L. Gray received a permit to erect a $2,000 workshop at 909 W. State st. while Harvey Bates was granted a permit for a $1,000 repair to his residence on Summit st.

War Relief Party

A public card and bingo party to provide funds for materials and other supplies for war relief sewing groups will be held at 8 tonight in the Memorial building. Salem trained nurses and others interested have arranged the affair. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Director Is Named

Le H. Colley, president of the First National bank, was elected a director of the Ohio Mutual Insurance Co. to succeed the late Home M. Silver, at a meeting of the board of directors here this morning.

Mr. Silver had been a director of the company for many years.

Hospital Notes

The following have been admitted to the Salem City hospital:

For medical treatment: Sara Koeh of New Waterford; Mrs. George Yarian of New Waterford.

Mrs. Fred Lieder of 542 E. School st. entered the Central Clinic hospital yesterday afternoon for medical treatment.

Recent Births

Mr. and Mrs. Fren Swartz of R. D. 2, Salem, are the parents of a son born yesterday afternoon at the Central Clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rea, R. D. 2, Salem, are the parents of a son born yesterday afternoon at the home.

In Mayor's Court

Joseph Hague of Cambridge, arrested by the state patrol on a charge of failure to have a driver's license, drew a fine of $25 and costs in Mayor Norman Phillips' office yesterday. The driver's permit would have cost him 40 cents.

Struck By Car

Mike Hoprich of 836 Newgarden st., was struck Thursday by an automobile driven by Wilford Smith of 780 Euclid st., on Newgarden st., near Arch. Police said they did not think Hoprich was injured seriously.

Truck Hits Guard Rail

A truck operated by William Weber of Beaver Falls skidded backwards into a guard rail on the Millville hill, east of Salem on Route 14, at 8:30 a. m. today. The state patrol said no one was injured.

Adam A. Garmroth, 88, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard McDonald, on the Franklin rd., at 11 a. m. today following six weeks' illness of complications.

The son of Adam and Catherine Garmroth was born at Elmore May 27, 1852, and had made his home here for the last five years, coming here from Elmore. His wife, Linda, died five years ago.

He had served as county commissioner for several years during his residence in Elmore, where he was a member of St. John's Evangelical church.

Surviving are his daughter, a grandson and a sister, Mrs. Minnie Froney of Scott.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Elmore church. Burial will be in the Elmore cemetery.

MISS MARIAN A. PATRICK

Relatives here have been advised of the death of Miss Marian A. Patrick of Santa Barbara, Calif., yesterday. Interment will be in Santa Barbara Saturday.

Miss Patrick, the daughter of William A. and Mary B. Patrick, was born in Salem. She was the granddaughter of Joseph A. and Ann T. Blackburn, pioneer residents of the city.

Edwin H. and Mary B. McCarty are cousins.

Doctor Answers Queries

* * * After 9 Months? * * *

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Do a baby's eyes change color after nine months old?

The color of the eyes depends upon pigment and pigment is deposited in the body relatively late in life. Most babies are born with blue eyes and in proportion to the amount of pigment developed, the eyes become darker with varying shades of brown. There are probably no absolutely black eyes. Among the white races, few babies are born with brown eyes.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

shades of brown. There are probably no absolutely black eyes. Among the white races, few babies are born with brown eyes.

What is the difference between tea which comes from China and Ceylon? Is it true that Ceylon teas have so much tannin that they should be avoided when eating meat on account of the tannin effect of the acid?

Chinese teas are classified with reference to the age and position of the leaf on the shoot. The leaves which are buds are called "peko tips"; the next leaves are the "orange peko" and "peko". These produce a high grade of tea and the choicest teas are largely a matter of taste, the chemical difference being very slight and confined to the substances which give aroma and flavor. Both green and black tea depend for their action on caffeine.

The teas contain some tannin, but in the amount used for an ordinary cup it is doubtful if the small variation would be of any importance. The idea that tannin in tea would act on meat in the stomach in the same way as tannin does on hides is unscientific.

Preparation Makes Different Grades

The preparation of tea leaves is really what makes the grade of tea. The fresh leaves do not have the aroma and other qualities which are developed by special treatment. The green tea is steamed and rapidly dried by means of artificial heat, thus retaining the green color. Black tea is allowed to undergo fermentation by exposure to sunlight and is finally dried by heat, during which process occurs a gradual turn in color to brown or black. In this process some of the aromatic principles are volatilized and a portion of the tannin is destroyed.

"I BELONG TO YOU" by ROSAMOND DU JARDIN

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR
Brent and Hank had been up around the Lodge. Now at dusk they walked back through the woods toward Abigail's house. Hank said goodnight at the bend in the road and trudged off toward his own cottage, his head bent against the raw wind, his ancient mackinaw hugged close about him. There was a car parked on the drive ahead. Brent peered at it through the gathering dark. A small coupe, Sara Gregory's.

The thought occurred to him that Sara had been coming rather often to his grandmother's house lately. Well, that was all right. Abigail was fond of her, she enjoyed her company. He was fond of her himself, for that matter. Sara's unfailing cheerfulness and understanding had helped him through all the dark months since March's departure.

Tonight Sara wasn't quite her usual self. There were faint shadows under her dark eyes, an unfamiliar poignancy about her smile. Sitting opposite Brent at dinner, she seemed curiously childlike and helpless, her customary bright vivacity overlaid by a faint patina of weariness.

"I guess I wasn't meant to be a school teacher," she apologized. "The darling little brats really got under my skin today. That's why I came over, really. I wanted cheering up."

Gran said firmly. "What you need's diversion. Brent, why don't you take Sara to the movies? It'd do you both good."

"Maybe it would at that," Brent grinned across at Sara. "I haven't been to a show in ages. How about it?"

Sara agreed, her eyes shining. "It would be fun. If you're sure you don't mind?" She turned a gaze of mock severity on Abigail. "You were sort of hijacked into it."

Sitting shoulder to shoulder with Sara in the slightly stuffy atmosphere of Kenouga's only theater, Brent found himself enjoying the absurd situations which unrolled before them. The picture was light and musical, sufficiently removed from reality to afford the maximum amount of relaxation. Sara seemed to be enjoying herself, too. But later, over hot chocolate and wafers at the drug store, she was subdued once more and quiet, speaking only when she was spoken to, her dark gaze brooding.

Getting into her little car, she suggested, "You drive, Brent."

And Brent slid his long length under the wheel obediently enough, started the motor. As they left the lights of the town behind, he asked a trifle diffidently, "There's nothing wrong, is there, Sara? I mean, you seem so sunk."

He realized with a little shock that she was crying. Crying softly and hopelessly, her face hidden in the upturned collar of her coat. Abruptly he swung the car over to the side of the road, stopped. It was very dark beyond the windows. It was dark within, too, but this was a friendly dark. They were enclosed in a small world of their own, a world of warmth and intimacy, into which the cold dark outside could not penetrate.

Brent asked, "What is it, Sara? You can tell me." Because of the liking he had always felt for her, the sudden sharp pity that rose in him at the sight of her tears, his arm went around her, so that she wept against his shoulder.

He had to bend his head a little to hear the words, muffled and indistinct, that were pouring from her. "Isn't everything wrong, Brent? Hasn't everything always been wrong — for us?" She was clinging to him now, frankly and unashamed, her arms creeping upward about his neck. She said huskily, "Nights like this, when I can be with you even for a little while — they're like a taste of heaven, darling. But they only make things harder afterward. Are we to go on like this forever?" There was shaken passion in her tone. It appalled Brent, as her words appalled him and the clasp of her arms about his neck. There was a fantastic quality about the whole unexpected situation. He would have put her from him by force, but for the unthinkable brutality of such an act.

He said gently, "Sara, you mustn't."

But she wouldn't let him go on. "Why?" she demanded. "Why shouldn't I speak? It's my whole life that's at stake, Brent. My future. My happiness. I've always loved you. I always shall. Surely you sensed that. As long as March was your wife, I said nothing. But she's nothing to you now, leaving you as she did."

Brent's voice cut in sternly, "Hush, Sara. March is my wife. Whatever she's done."

"You'd take her part?" Sara demanded shrilly. "Do you imagine for a moment she cares for you, that she ever cared, for that matter? When a woman loves a man, she's true to him, she stands by him through thick and thin, she isn't even aware that other men exist. I know, Brent." The shrewishness had left her voice now and in its place was pity. "She'll want her freedom sooner or later. She'll ask for a divorce. Why should you let her humiliate you? You're the one who's been wronged, you have the grounds."

"Be still!" Brent's voice was terrible in its anger. He put Sara from him firmly, so that she cowered into her corner of the seat, her eyes dark and hurt in her white face. He said, "If March wants a divorce she can have it. I wouldn't hold her. But the first move must come from her. Do you understand?" He started the motor and it seemed to Sara that his hand, in the faint glow from the dash-board, trembled a little. His jaw was grim, his eyes fixed straight ahead, as he piloted the car along the curving road. After a long while he said, "We had better forget tonight ever happened. Sara. I'm sorry if I hurt you, but that's the way things are, the way they'll have to be."

Sara said no word. Her thoughts seethed with hatred for March, even yet and after all that had happened, as so strongly entrenched in Brent's heart that there was no dislodging her. The anger and resentment that burned in Sara were all for March, not Brent. March was to blame for his attitude. Once she was irreversibly lost to him, Sara felt confident she could win him over. He had cared for her once, long ago, before March came into his life. There was no reason to suppose he could not care again. Not as she cared, perhaps, but enough Sara had no pride, no scruples in this matter. She loved Brent too utterly to be deterred from the course that was already shaping itself in her mind.

What was it Brent had said? "If March wants a divorce, I wouldn't hold her. But the first move must come from her."

Sitting there, with tears drying on her lashes and.charAt her heart, Sara smiled faintly, but without bitterness. Perhaps something could be done about that first move.

She said goodnight to Brent almost absently. Driving the short distance to her own home, her thoughts were busy. She didn't know March's address, but that was a minor obstacle. Sara's mother had a sister who lived in Chicago. She would write Aunt Louise, Sara decided, explaining that she was enclosing a letter to a friend whose address she had mislaid. It would be a simple matter for her aunt to look March up in the directory and forward the letter.

The house was quiet as Sara let herself in and dark but for the half-light which had been left burning for her. She signed a small sigh of satisfaction, tip-toeing past her mother's closed door. Now there need be no delay, no necessity for tiresome explanations. She could write March Randolph at once, while the things she meant to say were so clear in her mind, while her determination was fresh and unfaltering.

After Conchita's marriage to Pete and their immediate departure for New York, March was lonelier than ever. Only Clay Saunders' kindness, his unfailing attention, made life bearable. Without him she sometimes wondered how she would have survived the dreary months of her separation from Brent. The hope she had entertained at first, the desperate certainty that Brent must write to her, died slowly, leaving in its place a sort of lethargy totally alien to March's nature. Nothing seemed very important any more. She lived from day to day, looking no farther back than yesterday, no farther ahead than tomorrow.

One blustery night in November she let herself into her apartment to the insistent ringing of the phone. The feminine voice at the other end of the wire was unfamiliar until its owner prompted pleasantly, "Remember me? I'm Griff Morgan's sister."

March murmured, swallowing her surprise, "Of course I remember you." And then, "Are you here in Chicago?"

It seemed the Countess Cassano was visiting the friends at whose penthouse March had dined last summer with Griff. It seemed she wanted to see March. She suggested luncheon the following day and March agreed.

They decided upon a time and place and said good-night. March replaced the receiver and stood there, feeling rather baffled. Why should Griff's sister trouble to seek her out? Their acquaintanceship seemed almost too slight to warrant the friendly gesture. Nevertheless, pleasure at the prospect of seeing Pat again warmed March. She had not forgotten how favorably Griff's sister had impressed her during their two brief meetings.

The Countess Cassano, exquisitely tattered and with sables at her throat, rose from a chair in the Palmer House lobby as March approached. For just a moment this infinitely assured woman seemed a stranger, so different was she from the tanned girl whose casual garb and pleasant informality had lingered in March's memory. But her instant smile was as wide and heart-warming as ever beneath the veiled unhappiness in her eyes and her two hands caught and held March's eagerly, dissipating that initial strangeness.

She said, "It's nice to see you again. You're looking well."

Her eyes probed March's deeply, but the dark gaze did not flinch. March answered simply, smiling back at her, "Thanks. So are you. It was nice of you to call me."

Pat shook her head: "It was selfish. I wanted to see you. You're not the sort of person one forgets easily and— you've been on my mind."

She didn't elaborate that remark until later. Over luncheon in one of the hotel's small dining-rooms their conversation was pleasantly impersonal. But with coffee and cigarettes Pat's mood seemed to alter. Or perhaps her casual bright assurance had been a mask that faded now, leaving in its place a look of uncertainty and question.

She said, "I'm going to be unpleasantly direct, March. Perhaps you'll resent it and refuse to tell me the things I want to know. But I hope not. I'm a direct sort of person. I think you are, too. And— however prying my questions seem, this is my business. Because Griff is my brother and he's concerned,

I think, in the things that have happened to you."

March's fingers tensed on her cigarette, her face that was so still, so expressionless, suddenly paled. But she said nothing and Pat went on. These were things she had wanted to say for a long time, that she had thought so often. They flowed smoothly now from her lovely lips and the low cadences of her voice carried sympathy and understanding and a stark honesty that induced, not resentment, but respect.

SEAMEN DRAWN FROM CANADA

Britain Appeals for Volunteers to Man Merchant Ships

BY EDWIN E. DOWELL
United Press Correspondent
TORONTO, Ont.—Hundreds of Canadian seamen and officers from the Atlantic to the Pacific are answering the call of the British merchant marine service.

Thousands of British sailors in ports over the world were recalled to man positions in the British navy following the outbreak of war. To fill these gaps, Britain looked to her Dominions. Canada answered the call with 2,000 of its most able seamen, of whom it is estimated more than half this number are from Toronto.

Britain needed oil and gasoline to lubricate and operate the machinery of war and a fleet of tankers was brought under British charter to carry these vital cargoes.
Only a few hours after the call went out for men, more than 200 Toronto sailors volunteered for the emergency and were soon on their way to Atlantic ports to join their vessels.

Many From Lake Fleets
The men who answered this call, in many instances, left lucrative jobs on shore and aboard lake steamers. They came from all walks of life.

As nation after nation yielded to the German onslaught, hundreds of ocean-going vessels — ranging from 1,000-ton tramp steamers to giant 20,000-ton passenger ships — escaped to the safety of British waters.

And as the demand increased for more men, England again turned to Canada. This time more than 500 Toronto men volunteered, lining up in front of shipping offices minutes after the call went out.
In a few hours, they were enroute eastward. Many were placed on board ships of other nations, including vessels of Swedish, Polish, Belgian, French and Netherlands
registry.

Officers Meet Emergency
In some instances, many lake officers who never had sailed out of the St. Lawrence river were placed in responsible positions aboard ocean-going vessels. A former captain of a C.N.R. passenger boat is now commander of a Canadian convoy ship. An engineer from a Toronto-owned ship holds a similar post on a Belgian vessel.
Some of these seamen have made their final trips, victims of enemy raiders patrolling the seas in search of cargo ships.

With the close of another lake season only a few weeks away, many seamen in Toronto are preparing to move into the merchant marine service for the winter.
Others already have obtained berths and are awaiting orders to sail.

A returning Toronto seaman summed it up this way: "If you want to find out who is boss of the seas, ask the man who sails the ships in convoy."

MINING OAKIES EVER HOPEFUL

Year's Return Averages Only $462 For Prospector

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—They take to the hills in Utah in the never-ending quest for gold, but the chief worry of the prospector who makes more than enough to feed himself and his mule, or fuel his battered auto, is not an annual income tax report.

His principal problem, judging from a report of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, is how to buy enough food to keep alive and sufficient supplies to operate one more year from the $462 he receives annually for months of back-breaking effort.

Placer mining was the basis of many fabulous fortunes when the west was young, and almost every creek and river yielded gold dust or silver ore.

Long Odds Taken

And not even the most discouraging report will stop scores of prospectors—amateurs and bearded veterans—from hitting the trail, hoping to uncover some hidden bonanza that 60 years of diligent searching has not already disclosed.

In recent years, "Oakies," unemployed bookkeepers, farmers, clerks and laborers have swelled the ranks of those who go into the hills in search of gold. Grizzled prospectors still have their pack mules but ramshackle automobiles and trucks have become a partner to the mule in beating trails across Utah mountain ranges.

Yet a study of the bureau of mines report shows that not one in 100 makes more than the barest living.

Few Placer Mines

Of 186 mines operated in Utah last year, only 11 were placer operations. Of this number, 175 gave up 2,094,097 tons of gold, silver and lead ore valued at $62,725,551.

While the larger mines yielded more than 2,000,000 tons of ore, placer operations gave up only 145 fine ounces of gold and 25 fine ounces of silver. Converted into cash, this produced $5,092 to be shared among 11 operators who worked long hours daily for almost the entire year.

And the veteran prospector who has spent long years separated from civilization following the lure of gold will admit "there ain't much sense in it, is there?"

But the spring thaws in the mountains will find the same veteran leading his mule into the mountains for "just one more crack at it," because "maybe I'll hit it this time."

The Sultan Takes a Bride

The Sultan of Johore, 67-year-old Indian potentate is shown with his bride, the former Marcella Mendel, 25, after their marriage in London. The Sultan's first marriage ended in divorce in 1938. Miss Lydia Hill, London showgirl to whom the Sultan was reported engaged, was killed by a German bomb last month.

This is NUCOA BETTER LIVING WEEK!

Grocers listed below are featuring NUCOA, the delicious spread for bread and flavor shortening which helps you "EAT BETTER" . . . "COOK BETTER" . . . and "SAVE BETTER"!

DON'T MISS your grocer's display this week. Make this your opportunity to try NUCOA! Made from pure vegetable oils cultured in fresh pasteurized skim milk—with Vitamin A added—Nucoa is primarily a delicious, wholesome spread for bread. But Nucoa costs so little that you can afford to cook it, too, and enjoy in your seasoned vegetables and in your cakes, cookies, breads, candies, sauces and fried foods, the old-fashioned rich flavor which only a spread for bread can give!

Find your grocer's name listed below. Celebrate "Better Living Week" by getting Nucoa today!

Nucoa furnishes as much food-energy as the most expensive spread for bread (3,300 calories per pound). And every pound of Nucoa the year around is guaranteed to contain over 7,500 units of precious, protective VITAMIN A.

NUCOA, the wholesome "Thrift Spread" with VITAMIN A, adds delicious flavor to your cooking, too!

SAVE BETTER

Gives fried foods richer flavor. And Nucoa is so digestible!

Tastes delicious on hot vegetables, pancakes and hot breads.

Adds table-quality food value and flavor to all your baking.

4-H Club News

Ass't. County Agent John Strausbaugh is in receipt of a specially designed gold medal which has been awarded to Marvin Coffey for making the highest county score in the fourth national 4-H rural electrification program.

The boy is a member of the 4-H Live Wires 4-H club led by T. A. Mercer of Salem.

Participants study the value of electricity to a community, determine its best uses at home and help disseminate results through exhibits, demonstrations and otherwise. Special attention is given lighting, power, heating and proper installations. The activity is supported with county, state and national awards provided by the Westinghouse company to further knowledge on the subject.

The award will be presented at a meeting of the 4-H Live Wires to be held in Salem on Dec. 2. Twenty-two club members in the county took some part in this club during the summer.

Hot Case

FREEPORT, Ill.—Police man had to double as a fireman in arresting a man on a charge of drunkenness. He found the man's tie ablaze, apparently from sparks falling from a cigarette. Field splashed a glass of water on it, took his prisoner to the station where he was booked as "being drunk and on fire."

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Police man—on or off duty—can't smoke in public. Police Chief Warren J. Hayes saw an officer scratch a match on the seat of his trousers—and light a pipe. Hayes immediately clamped a smoking ban on members of the force.

BOWLING RESULTS

In the Electric Furnace league at the Masonic alleys last night, the Purchasing Dept. broke their first place tie with the Electricians by defeating them two games out of three. Heston led the winners with scores of 170, 202, 182 for a 554 total.

The Draftsmen edged out a two-game victory over the Machinists while the Structural Dept. gained a similar verdict over the Transformers. In the other contest, the Office took two from the Shippers.

At the Grate alleys, the Commercial league leaders, Crescent Machine, continued their fast pace by trouncing the Trades Class three straight games.

Smith's Creamery took possession of second place by trimming Hilliard's Market three games while the Washingtonville I. O. O. F. was losing two to the People's Lumber. Hawkins led the People's Lumber crew with scores of 187, 204, 187 for a total of 578.

The Jaycees All-Stars edged the Letonia Eagles two out of three while the Palace Lunch swept three from the Bliss. Bishop of the Lunch team rolled a good second frame of 222. Zimmerman's Olds trounced the Club club all three games.

FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—Eight seniors, two juniors and a lone sophomore entered football's hall of fame today as they were voted to the first team of the Associated Press' 1940 All-Ohio conference squad.

Wittenberg's Lutherans, state and conference champions, won three berths on the starting eleven, while Muskingum's deposed champions snared two places. Single posts went to stars from Ohio Northern, Denison, Heidelberg, Wooster, Kent State and Bowling Green.

The Associated Press acted only as a board of elections in counting ballots cast by the 20 coaches, 20 representative newspapermen who had handled conference contests, and officials who worked the games.

Probably the most astounding feature of the balloting was the fact that 152-pound Fred Folino of Heidelberg, a sophomore, nosed out Joe Poremba of Case, senior star for the first string center job. Another unlooked-for result was that Jim Jones, Kent State's great end, failed to land one of the wing berths.

John Kostyo, Wittenberg's captain and the state's leading scorer with 67 points, led the entire field and was awarded the captaincy of the honorary squad. In an "on the side" ballot Kostyo was designated the outstanding player in the conference.

Altogether, 45 backs, 26 tackles, 31 guards, 13 centers and 26 ends received votes, each of the "pickers" naming first and second teams.

The Evans brothers, senior Dave and junior Winslow, were the Muskingum stars to make the grade. Dave at tackle and his brother at end.

As Longhorns Scored Stunning Upset Over Aggies

The highly-touted Texas A. & M. line is pictured as its goal line was crossed by Fullback Pete Layden of the University of Texas for the only touchdown of the game which saw the Aggies go down to their first defeat in 19 games. The startling upset was seen by 45,000 fans who jammed the Longhorns' stadium at Austin, Tex. This Texas A. & M. defeat may react on the possibilities of the Aggies meeting the west coast champions in the Pasadena Rosebowl.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Thirteen tales: Lou Nova has a national magazine piece coming out next month that will be a shocker—to some folks—also, Arch Ward, the Chicago sports editor, has had a brand new set of feelers from the pro footballers. (You'll recall he turned down a $25,000 per year bid a year ago).... Billy Conn is 1-3 over Lee Savold tonight—just the same, a lot of guys on Broadway have the idea the good-looking Pittsburgher may get tagged for once.... Rumor says Slip Madigan will be back in the football picture next year, and in a big way.

SQUAD IS PARED AT COLUMBIANA

Coach Al Beach Cuts 20; Open Dec. 1 at Sa-linerville

COLUMBIANA, Nov. 29.—After a week of pre-season basketball practice at Columbiiana High school, Coach Al Beach has cut his squad of about 40 boys to 20, most of whom will be carried throughout the season.

Four of the lads are lettermen, Zellers, Gleckler, Hollinger and Kyser. The first two are Seniors, the others Juniors. Two Sophomores, Firestone and Patchen, look certain to make the first team. Out last year's reserves, Rohrer, Hively and Barrow have met the most playing experience. White, Bell and Dickinson, last year's Junior High stars, look the best among the new men, along with Joe Lazear, a Sophomore transfer from Mansfield, W. Va. The squad also includes Frye, Dowd, B. Case, Harrold, A. Gorcheff and Chamberlain.

Daily practice sessions will continue until the opening game, Dec. 6, at Salineville. Coach Beach plans to hold practice scrimmages with Alliance and Salem High schools within the next week. Of the 16 games scheduled, the games home and abroad are equally divided. The opponents are the same as last year, except that the state champion Canfield aggregation has been added in the place of Youngstown Ursuline.

There is no need to mention names here.... But a fellow who usually knows what he is talking about has just wired that one of the most successful coaches in the business is on his way out at a big midwestern school.... Also that a leading school in the northwest right now is dickerling for a very able line coach at a mid-western college to become its head coach.... Maybe it's all

HERE IS A FARM PRICED AT NO MORE THAN A CITY HOME

64½ acres, 2½ miles southwest of Salem. This farm sits a little off the main road, however, its produce is worth just as much as if the farm were right on the main road, and we are giving you the benefit of a low price! Land is in a high state of cultivation; well watered. Has a good, comfortable brick house with furnace, electric and gas; gas is also extended to wash house and brooder house. Pressure tank in basement. Has a very good, large basement barn; stanchions for 18 cows and room for more. Chicken houses with room for 300, also brooder house. Other necessary outside buildings. This farm can be sold for $4,000 on reasonable terms or owner would trade for a small place in the country or might even consider city property.

HUTSON RATES AS BEST END IN FOOTBALL

Green Bay Star Holds Many Records In Pass-Receiving

NEW YORK — Don Hutson, Green Bay Packers all-National Football League end, has often been called the Ty Cobb of football. Certainly he is the finest offensive end in the history of the sport. He possesses outright or shares every pass-receiving record on the National Football League record books.

At the start of the 1940 campaign, Hutson is in his sixth season with the world champion Packers, during which time he has scored 39 touchdowns, kicked six extra points to score 240 points, third best all-time high scoring among league individual players.

Almost Dead Heat

It was a most dead heat between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Packers in the race for Hutson's major-league services. In the days before the National League negotiation draft list became effective, it was the rule that a player was the property of the club whose signed contract first arrived in the league president's office. The Packer's claim arrived in the late President Joe Carr's office in Columbus, Ohio, about an hour before Brooklyn's contract.

He is faster than the mark than anyone in the game, swift as a greyhound running straightaway. An amazing pass receiver with a change of pace which makes him as elusive as a wisp of smoke, he can win games almost single-handed. If it weren't for the rules Green Bay probably could save a lot of money by just sending out Hutson and a forward passer on the afternoon of a game, according to some league coaches.

Hutson's secret of pass-receiving is to deceive and fool the defensive men covering the play; to trick them into a wrong position and lead them into a false step. How does he do it? Hutson says, "I guess most of it is a natural sense of balance and rhythm. Some is developed, too. All I do at practice sessions now is work on my feint of the man downfield. There must be an accurate passer, though, to lead the receiver. Arnie Herber and Cecil Istell do just that."

Still Scores
The pros have studied him, tried to circumvent him, but he still scores those touchdowns. It has been said that no one man can stop him. Two men are often detailed to watch him, but he often snipes the ball behind them both for a touchdown.

Up to the 1940 season he has

Case Grid Coach Guest Wednesday At Banquet Here

Ray Ride, athletic director and coach at Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, will be guest speaker at the annual Salem High football banquet Wednesday. Faculty Manager Fred Cope said today. The banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. at the Memorial building.

Coach Ride has just completed one of his most successful seasons at Case, his team losing only to Carnegie Tech and Western Reserve. The powerful Red Cats of Reserve were forced to kick a field goal in the last seconds of the contest for the victory over the Rough Riders.

The Case coach is considered one of the best mentors in Ohio. Never having a large squad to work with, he achieves remarkable results.

Moving pictures of the Salem-Barberton game also will be shown.

led receivers in the National League three of the five years in the circuit. He received more votes than any other individual on the coaches' all-league team last season. His pass receiving records: Most catches lifetime, 159; most catches single season, 41; most yards from pass catching, lifetime, 2890; most yards single season, 846. He has scored three touchdowns in one game three times—more than any player in league history.

Hutson played with Alabama as a collegian and starred in the team's Rose Bowl victory. He is married and has one daughter. His home is in Neenah, Wis., where he works with a paper pulp firm. He is 6-1, 195 pounds, 27 years old.

CITY LEAGUE PILOTS WILL MEET MONDAY

Basketeers To Line Up Plans For Coming Campaign

Managers of the prospective Class A and B city league basketball teams will hold a meeting at the Memoria building Monday night at 7:30 p. m. All managers are urged to attend in order that schedules, regulations, and other problems may be ironed out.

The A and B league will open their schedules on Monday, Dec. 8. The Class C church league will open on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 7, and the Mickey Maguire loop will begin that same morning.

Joe Kelley, director of the leagues, expects a large entry this year especially in the Class B division.

Many of the prospective league teams have already held practices.

Last year's champions in their respective leagues were: National Sanitary, Class A; Baptists, Class B; Methodists, Class C; and Columbia Street school, Mickey Maguire.

Lash Sets Record

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Don Lash says that he derives sheer joy from running and consequently it will not be surprising if the seven-time National Senior Amateur Athletic Union cross country champion remains in track competition for some time to come.

Lash ran 52 challengers into submission and set an all-time record of 30 minutes 25.8 seconds for the 1940 10,000 meter A. A. U. harrier event at Meadowbrook Country Club, here yesterday.

Norman Lymangrover, Wittenberg		Back	Jr.	170	Napoleon

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—Eight seniors, two juniors and a lone sophomore entered football's hall of fame today as they were voted to the first team of the Associated Press 1940 All-Ohio conference squad.

Wittenberg's Lutheran state and conference champions, won three berths on the starting eleven, while Muskingum's deposed champions snared two places. Single posts went to stars from Ohio Northern, Denison, Heidelberg, Wooster, Kent State and Bowling Green.

The Associated Press acted only as a board of elections in counting ballots cast by the 20 coaches, 20 representative newspapermen who had handled conference contests, and officials who worked the games.

Probably the most astounding feature of the balloting was the fact that 152-pound Fred Polina of Heidelberg, a sophomore, nosed out Joe Poremba of Case, senior star, for the first string center job. Another unlooked-for result was that Jim Jones, Kent State's great end, failed to land one of the wing berths.

John Kostyo, Wittenberg's captain end, the state's leading scorer with 67 points, led the entire field and was awarded the captaincy of the honorary squad. In an "on the side" ballot Kostyo was designated the outstanding player in the conference.

Altogether, 45 backs, 26 tackles, 31 guards, 13 centers and 26 ends received votes, each of the "pickers" naming first and second teams.

The Evans brothers, senior Dave and junior Winslow, were the Muskingum stars to make the grade. Dave at tackle and his brother at end.

Second Team

Player College Pos.
Jones, Kent State, end.
J. Johnson, Wittenberg, tackle.
Cejlik, Heidelberg, guard.
Poremba, Case, center.
Barnett, Bowling Green, guard.
Porowski, Kent State, tackle.
Burkhart, Denison, end.
Keel, Ohio Northern, back.
Wolfe, Heidelberg, back.
Schuppska, Case, back.
Kate, Wooster, back.

Third Team

Player College Pos.
Yurcheson, Case, End.
Itnat, Bowling Green, tackle.
Eichler, Case, guard.
Larkins, Muskingum, center.
Konya, John Carroll, guard.
Auck, Heidelberg, tackle.
Gernert, Wooster, end.
Jones, Denison, back.
Riggs, Oberlin, back.
Ditch, Wooster, back.
Metz, Case, back.
Close on the heels of the leaders were:

Ends: R. Caton of Wittenberg.

Timko of Heidelberg, Malone of Ohio Northern, McCord of Case,

SQUAD IS PARED AT COLUMBIANA

Coach Al Beach Cuts 20; Open Dec. 1 at Sardinia

COLUMBIANA, Nov. 29.—After a week of pre-season basketball practice at Columbiiana High school, Coach Al Beach has cut his squad of about 40 boys to 20, most of whom will be carried throughout the season.

Four of the lads are lettermen, Zellers, Glecker, Hollinger and Kyser. The first two are Seniors, the others Juniors. Two Sophomores, Firestone and Patchen, look certain to make the first team. At last year's reserves, Rohrer, Hively and Barrow have met the most playing experience. White, Bell and Dickinson, last year's Junior High stars, look the best among the new men, along with Joe Lazear, a Sophomore transfer from Marion, W. Va. The squad also includes Frye, Dowd, B. Case, Harrold, A. Gorcheff and Chamberlain.

Daily practice sessions will continue until the opening game, Dec. 6, at Salineville. Coach Beach plans to hold practice scrimmages with Alliance and Salem High schools within the next week. Of the 10 games scheduled, the games home and abroad are equally divided. The opponents are the same as last year, except that the state champion Canfield aggregation has been added in the place of Youngstown Ursuline.

Jack Miley, New York Post: "I see by the papers that Col. John Reed Kilpatrick of Madison Square Garden is going to try to bring back bassing, which is a much tougher job than bringing back my bonnie to me—and they've both been away about the same length of time.... If he succeeds this will be the most stupendous single-handed achievement since Houdini made the elephant disappear, and then had to retire because he couldn't think of a bigger trick to use as an encore."

There is no need to mention names here.... But a fellow who usually knows what he is talking about has just wired that one of the most successful coaches in the business is on his way out at a big midwestern school.... Also that a leading school in the northwest right now is dickered for a very able line coach at a mid-western college to become its head coach.... Maybe it's all

Tommy Harmon pulled down $900 for turning pro (on the radio) the other night. And if any of the pro football owners were hoping he'd flop, they can guess again...

Theatre Attractions

The world's largest city, New York, is the background for the State's attraction, "City for Conquest," tonight and Saturday, with James Cagney and Ann Sheridan in the starring roles.

Cagney and Sheridan, two firebrands as wild and reckless as the city they seek to conquer, are seen as slum youngsters who grow up to taste the success that only the Big City can give her favored children—and to learn the feel of failure.

Besides being the story of two lovers, it is the story of the boy's younger brother, a musical genius whose talent had to be fostered by

Business College News Notes

The Assemble on Nov. 27 was in charge of F. F. Wells, who presented a program of moving pictures.

Some of the pictures shown were: Winter sports at Lake Arrowhead showing ice carnivals—with figure skating by several small girls. The other sports along the same line were skiing, sleigh rides, bob sled tidings, and aquaplaning.

One film showed beautiful spots in Hawaii. Another film concerned Bali, and showed the habits and customs of the native people of the island.

A picture dealing with Negro spirituals was also presented in which some of Stephen Foster's best songs were sung.
